

Business Contracts

Given Chapman and Cutler LLP's long history of serving the business community, our business contract clients number in the hundreds. Some are individuals, while others are corporations, partnerships, limited liability companies and other such business entities.

The firm regularly works on business contracts of many types. Consequently, our practitioners are experienced in an infinite variety of contract issues.

We regularly draft asset purchase, stock purchase and merger agreements, limited liability, partnership, joint venture and shareholder agreements, letters of intent, confidentiality and non-disclosure agreements, stock options, employment agreements, voting trusts, buy-sell agreements, employee benefit plans, consulting agreements, release and settlement agreements, and real estate and personal property sale and lease agreements. Additionally, our clients come to us for a wide range of specialty agreements. Among them are contracts related to product purchases, product sales, product manufacture, as well as licenses and distribution and sales agreements.

Our practice group members are ready to counsel you on your contract, no matter how simple or complex it may be.
