

Certified Capital Company Finance (CAPCOs)

Chapman and Cutler LLP's Certified Capital Company Finance Group has built on the firm's broad experience in tax law and secured and unsecured financing to achieve a highly recognized national presence in the esoteric area of certified capital company finance.

We consider our signature interdisciplinary approach to be the key to dynamic client service.

The members of the Credit Tenant Loan Finance Group routinely enlist firm lawyers from a variety of disciplines to provide clients with the broadest and most effective perspectives in this niche area. Each time we organize a team to handle the specialized matters clients bring our way, we know that counsel with extended experience in tax, secured and unsecured finance, insurance and securities law matters are just offices away.

Our range of experience is reflected in the fact that Chapman and Cutler has been called upon by certified capital company sponsors in government to review pending certified capital company bills prior to their passage. Once such bills have gone to the floor, we monitor them to assist our clients optimum continued awareness.

Representative Transactions

- Our practice group has shepherded a variety of CAPCO transactions in various states in which the principal and tax credits were backed by insurance policies.
- Additionally, the firm represented clients in various states, handling all facets of CAPCO transactions in which principal and tax credits are backed by a perfected security interest in U.S. government securities.

Attorneys

Paul D. Carman

Related Practices

Corporate Finance and Securities