

General Corporate

The General Corporate Group practices in virtually all fields of business law, both domestically and internationally. Among the business transactions and activities in which we are most actively engaged are mergers, acquisitions, divestitures, joint ventures, strategic alliances and other business combinations.

Our ability to serve the wide-ranging legal needs of so many clients is enhanced by resource teams made up of members from the firm's other practice groups.

We serve a wide range of clients, both publicly and privately held, including financial services institutions, such as financial holding companies, banks and bank holding companies, investment advisors, insurance companies, manufacturers, distributors, wholesalers, retailers, utilities, contractors, transportation companies, professional service providers, pension funds and not-for-profit entities.

Included in the full range of services the General Corporate Group offers its public company clients is providing compliance advice respecting the Sarbanes-Oxley Act as well as SEC, NYSE, AMEX and NASDAQ rules and regulations. The General Corporate Group also works with its public company clients to develop and implement their employee benefit plans and anti-takeover strategies.

We provide general representation to corporations, limited liability companies, partnerships, joint ventures, associations, not-for-profit entities and individuals, and are called upon to draft and negotiate all types of business agreements. Additionally, we are experienced in drafting stock purchase, asset purchase and merger, partnership, shareholder, buy-sell and voting agreements.

We regularly prepare employment, employee benefit and consulting agreements as well as real estate and personal property sale and lease agreements. We also have in-depth experience with product purchase, sale and manufacturing agreements and contracts covering joint ventures, licensing, distribution, sales representatives and suppliers.
